

Please continue to categorize the Internet within Title 2 and protect what is commonly known as Net Neutrality.

I am a professor of media at MIT, and organization that did much to develop the Internet. The Internet works best as a level playing field, where all users are treated equally. If the Internet is recategorized under Title 1, the courts have already determined that the FCC will be unable to protect neutrality. Yes, such a backwards move will mean more money for the telecoms, but it will also destroy one of the country's greatest revenue producers.

Keep America creative. Keep the Internet neutral and a good place for democratic exchange. Keep the Internet categorized under Title 2 and maintain 'net neutrality'.

Sincerely,

Professor William Uricchio
